From the President

People of the Book

I gave a very special gift to my grandson Eli on the occasion of his bar mitzvah. That gift was a wall chart of his ancestors going back ten generations.

I had been digging into the ancestry of my family since I was a teenager. I queried my grandparents and my parents. I took notes. This only got me as far back as my great grandparents, who lived in the “Pale of Settlement” that stretched from Lithuania to Kiev. When my daughter attempted to locate the tombstone of her great grandfather in Kovna, she found that most of the Jewish cemeteries had been destroyed during WWII.

But my Ex was a fifth-generation American, and a Reform Jew. His family kept records, which greatly enhanced the genealogy chart that I gave to Eli. That's how, at his bar mitzvah, I was able to tell Eli that his ancestors

- were all Jewish—for at least the last 300 years,
- all got married and had children,
- had the good fortune to leave Europe well before the Holocaust,

- all could read and write—every single one of them.

Which brings me to the high regard for learning in Jewish culture. We Jews are so eager to learn that we continue studying into old age—which brings me to Sholom University. We are eager not just to learn, but also to teach—which brings me to Ira Simon and the outstanding Bible study class he conducted last semester on I Samuel. We continue to look forward to outstanding adult education classes at Temple Sholom. Teaching courses for us during the next few months will be Eric London and Rabbi Joshua Gray, both of whom will surely bring their psychological expertise to bear on topics of Jewish interest. And Ira Simon will be back in the coming months with more biblical exploration.

I can't predict the end of this story. Will my grandson Eli stay Jewish? Will he get married and have kids? Will he be lucky and safe? One thing I know for sure, he will study and learn, just like the rest of us.

Shakespeare's reminder that, "All the world's a stage and we are all merely players," is echoed in the suggestion given on Purim to "drink until you cannot tell the difference between the hero and the villain."

This mandate, meant for adults, is restricted to this holiday. It is not encouraging cantankerous behavior, but asks the participants to push their boundaries communally. The drinking can be literal or figurative but we honor our Purim intention by going beyond the labels of the mind and frolic in a state of being where we are all one.

Every month of Adar we tell the story of standing up for our beliefs in the face of oppression. It demonstrates the courage to overcome our inclinations to seek personal power at the expense of our humanity. It is also a victorious celebration of our diversity, which manages to thrive despite any demagogue's attempts to destroy those that are different.

As this timeless story unfolds in celebration again this year, we are taking note how, unfortunately, our own nation is mirroring characters with strong attempts at oppressing our nation's diversity, as well as the overall well-being of humanity.

This Purim we will enjoy ourselves and become one with community. We will dance and march while we share this story with our young ones so it can carry on as a reminder. But also, may this Purim celebration truly inspire us to find the spirited and righteous fire of Esther in our souls and voices. It is needed. Let Esther and Mordechi both inspire and remind us all how important it is to find ways to speak up, speak out, and stand up for one another.

We are looking forward to hearing all about your celebration when we return to services in temple on March 10th!

With love and gratitude,

Ira Levin & Julia Bordenaro Levin

TORAH STUDY OPPORTUNITY

by Anne Palley

Keeping her beloved congregation in mind, Rabbi Medwin has suggested an online Torah study opportunity.

Rabbi Micah Streiffer offers both a beginner and an advanced class at affordable fees.

Rabbi Micah Streiffer

The recommended monthly contribution for this program is $36 per month. However, no one is turned away for financial reasons — participants may simply choose to enter a different amount. The first month is a $1 trial so you can check things out. That gives you four weeks to decide whether the group is right for you.

I attended the first class and it was a similar format to our past classes with Rabbi Medwin.

This is an opportunity to connect with people from all over the U.S. and Canada.

NOTE: If you took Rabbi Medwin's classes, you are NOT a beginner.

Make sure you are on the temple's email list to receive notification of the links for Zoom services, classes, and meetings.

You can participate in Shabbat Services remotely. If you would like to participate via ZOOM, and you are not on our temple e-mail list, please e-mail the temple office (templesholom1954@gmail.com) for information about joining classes and services.

If you have never used ZOOM before, you will need to download the software and follow the instructions. Go to <https://zoom.us/download> and from the Download Center, click on the Download button under "Zoom Client For Meetings". This application will automatically download when you start your first Zoom Meeting.

ZOOM is usually up and running 15 minutes before the start time.
